

2009 and a complete site rebuild!

2009-01-27 15:10:46 by stalks

2009! & The RetroVault has now officially been running for over five years. Who knew it would still not be finished?! When I started it way back in August 2003, It seemed like the perfect way to honour my old 8-Bit memories and get some experience with a new web technology. But, as with a lot of my projects what started out with all good intentions got superseded with another project and then another and so on. Well I am glad to say that the RetroVault is back on the top of my list and as such I have given the site a complete overhaul. New features have been added and will be enabled throughout the year. Most noticeably the Forum Section will be a place for people to show off their 8-bit collections and discuss their 8-Bit experiences. We also have a new site sponsor 'UGO' who have helped fund the site for the next year.

StalkS

<http://www.retrovault.com/modules.php?name=News&file=article&sid=27>